Why is Bank of America being Investigated?

Bank of America is being investigated for securities fraud, and its senior officers are being investigated for breaches of fiduciary duty, following a significant stock drop. The decline in Bank of America's stock price caused significant losses to investors.

Bank of America is one of the world's largest financial institutions and is the second largest bank in the United States.

BFA is investigating securities fraud and breach of fiduciary duty claims relating to Bank of America's violations of Bank Secrecy Act and anti-money laundering laws.

Why did Bank of America's Stock Drop?

On October 13, 2026, the U.S. Treasury Department announced more than $1.21 billion in penalties against Bank of America for violations of sanctions and anti-money laundering laws. The fines represent the third largest penalty in Treasury Department history and the largest in the history of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Following the news, Bank of America shares fell approximately 4.76% on October 14, 2026.
