Corporate Governance

Jamf Holding Corp. (NASDAQ: JAMF): Jamf Holding Corp.'s ("Jamf" or the "Company") board of directors is being investigated for potentially breaching its fiduciary duties in connection with a potential take-private sale of Jamf that would cash out every stockholder for $13.05 per share.

If you are a holder of Jamf stock, you are encouraged to submit your information.

Why is Jamf being Investigated?

On October 29, 2025, Jamf announced that it had agreed to be acquired by Francisco Partners Management, L.P. ("FP") for $13.05 per share. This price may represent an unfairly low price being paid to Jamf stockholders and may be the result of conflicts of interest between the Jamf board of directors, FP, and Vista Equity Partners ("Vista").

Vista exercises significant power over Jamf, owning 34.4% of the outstanding stock, and having contractual rights to appoint four out of the nine members of the Jamf board of directors. Vista may have used its influence to orchestrate its preferred end to its investment in Jamf.

The board of directors of Jamf did not employ an independent special committee to evaluate the transaction. While the deal is conditioned on a stockholder vote, the Company has not excluded Vista from that vote.

BFA Law is investigating Jamf's board of directors and Vista to ascertain whether they have breached fiduciary duties to Jamf stockholders in connection with the contemplated transaction.

What Are My Rights?

If you currently own Jamf stock, you may have rights under Delaware law to investigate whether or how Jamf's board of directors or Vista may have breached their fiduciary duties in connection with the potential transaction.
