

BFA Attorneys Publish Article in Bloomberg Law on the SEC and Private Enforcement of the Federal Securities Laws

BFA attorneys Evan Kubota and Thomas Allen published an article in Bloomberg Law titled “Private Investors Pick Up Slack for Plummeting SEC Enforcement.”

The article discusses how the SEC’s declining efforts to enforce the federal securities laws and distribute money to investors underscore the critical role of private securities class actions in compensating investors and deterring corporate misconduct.

Read the full article here.